| Intended Learning Outcomes | Upon completion of the subject, students will be able to:
   a. write correspondence and reports for internal or external communication in workplace contexts; and
   b. participate effectively in meetings in hotel and tourism contexts.
   To achieve the above outcomes, students are expected to use language and text structure appropriate to the context, select information critically, and provide support for stance and opinion. |
| Subject Synopsis/Indicative Syllabus | The content is indicative. The balance of the components, and the corresponding weighting, will be based on the specific needs of the students.
   1. Written communication in the hospitality and tourism industry
      Selecting and organising relevant content; using appropriate format, vocabulary, grammatical structures and style in workplace correspondence and reports.
   2. Business meetings
      Chairing and participating in meetings; presenting information, stating opinions, making recommendations, and expressing positive and negative viewpoints in meetings; negotiation skills; using non-verbal interaction strategies.
   3. Language appropriacy
      Using context-sensitive language in spoken and written English.
   4. Language development
      Improving and extending relevant features of grammar, vocabulary and pronunciation. |
| Teaching/Learning Methodology | The subject is designed to introduce students to the written communication skills that they may need to function effectively in their future professions.
The study method is primarily seminar-based. Activities include teacher input and project work involving drafting and evaluating texts, mini-presentations, |
Discussions and simulations. Students will be referred to information on the Internet and the ELC’s Centre for Independent Language Learning.

Learning materials developed by the English Language Centre are used throughout this course. Additional reference materials will be recommended as required.
